

SUMMARY

The Fred C. Thomson Building is a two-story commercial building located on West Sunset Boulevard between Seward Street and Hudson Avenue in Hollywood. Constructed in 1927, the subject property was designed in the Spanish Colonial Revival architectural style by the architectural partnership of Henry L. Gogerty (1894-1990) and Carl Jules Weyl (1890-1948) for film actor Fred Clifton Thomson (1890-1928) as retail and studio space. Over the years, a number of commercial tenants have occupied the building, which have included the Gourmet Restaurant, the Cat and Fiddle, and most recently, The Hearth and Hound.

Rectangular in plan, the subject property is of brick construction with smooth stucco cladding and has a low-pitched hipped roof with red clay tiles. The building is constructed in three segments, appearing as though there are three separate buildings, but all are interconnected. The primary, north-facing elevation is asymmetrically composed with a large, central arched entryway leading to a T-shaped inner courtyard. There is a square tower on the east corner of the north elevation that is capped by a pyramidal roof. Fenestration includes multi-lite wood casement windows and multi-lite wood fixed windows. Other features include ornamental cutouts on the exterior walls, arched window openings, and decorative wrought iron entry gates, stair and balcony railings, and window grills. Several mature trees are located on the property, including an olive tree within the courtyard.

Fred Thomson was born in Pasadena, California in February 1890. After abandoning a potential athletic career to follow in his father's footsteps and become a Presbyterian minister, he worked as a pastor in Goldfield, Nevada for several years. Later, Thomson went on to serve in the military. During the war, he became acquainted with actress Mary Pickford who introduced him to screenwriter Frances Marion Owens and set him on a course to become an actor. Finding his place in roles in Western movies, Thomson appeared in over 30 films, many with his horse, Silver King. On Christmas Day in 1928, Thomson passed away at the age of 38 due to tetanus.

Henry L. Gogerty was born in Zearing, Iowa in January 1894 and received degrees in architecture and engineering from the University of Illinois. After serving in field artillery in World War I, he settled in Los Angeles and opened his architectural practice. In 1926, Gogerty formed a partnership with Carl Jules Weyl that lasted approximately two years. The firm designed a number of Hollywood-area commercial buildings, including the Palace Theater, the Baine Building, and the Shane Building, all of which are listed as contributors to the National Register Hollywood Boulevard Commercial and Entertainment District. Apart from working with Weyl, Gogerty is credited with designing over 350 schools in Southern California as well as industrial complexes including the Hughes Aircraft complex in Mar Vista. Gogerty died on January 4, 1990 in Los Angeles at the age of 96.

Carl Jules Weyl was born in Stuttgart, Germany in December 1890. He received his architectural training at École des Beaux-Arts in Paris, France before immigrating to the United States in 1912. Weyl designed a number of buildings in Los Angeles, including the Gaylord Apartments and the York Boulevard State Bank Building (HCM #581). Weyl died in Los Angeles on July 12, 1948, at the age of 57.

The subject property appears to have undergone several alterations over the years that include the replacement of hardwood floors in 1931; interior remodeling, addition of a mezzanine, and installation of a rooftop neon sign in 1948; the construction of two additions to the rear of the restaurant in 1950; modification to the parapets and creation of second floor access in 1956; installation of awnings in 1959; interior remodeling in 1962; the erection of a post sign in 1965; the addition of a parking lot at rear of building in 1978; interior remodeling in 1980; seismic retrofitting in 1981; interior remodeling and replacement of some windows in 1987; installation of exterior hardscape in 2016; and the replacement of some windows in 2017.

The subject property was identified as eligible for listing in the California Register of Historical Resources both individually and as a Contributor to the identified Sunset Potential Historic District through the 2009 Historic Resources Survey of the Hollywood Redevelopment Area prepared by Chattel Architecture, Planning & Preservation, Inc. in collaboration with PCR Services Corporation and LSA Associates, Inc.

Fred C. Thomson Building Architectural Description

The Fred C. Thomson Building is a 2-story asymmetrical 24,193 square foot rectangular-shaped Spanish Colonial Revival styled commercial building with a central courtyard, accessed through an arched entry near the center of the front façade. The structure is of masonry, clad in smooth stucco. The building is constructed in three segments, giving a feeling of three separate buildings, but all are interconnected as one unit. The visible roofing is hipped or slopped and covered with Spanish clay tile and open eaves. Some portions have decorative detailing under the eaves. The remaining flat roofing is either behind parapets or surrounded by the hipped roofing and is covered with rolled asphalt. A vehicular passage to the rear is at the far left of the front façade and a secondary canvas canopy covered entry, with a flat wooden door, is to the right of that opening.

Additional details include multi-light wood casement and fixed pane windows, a number with pointed arches, elaborate window grills, exterior staircases with tiled risers, a square tower, with a weathervane, is at the front of the building, above the secondary entry. A porthole window recessed within a four pointed shield is set at the second level to the right of the tower. Various balconies of different materials, ranging from masonry to wrought iron are found at several locations both on the front facade and facing the balcony. A wishing well is in the courtyard, which is paved in red brick (recently replaced).

Several large mature trees are located within the courtyard area, including an olive tree in the courtyard, recently surrounded by a circular bench. Planters are lining many of the walls facing the courtyard.

A parking lot is located at the rear of the property, accessed by the driveway through the left end of the building on Sunset Boulevard and a driveway from the rear from Leland Way.

Significance Statement

The Fred C. Thomson Building is a romanticized Spanish Colonial Revival courtyard commercial building designed by the short-lived architectural partnership of Henry L. Gogerty and Carl Jules Weyl. It was constructed for cowboy actor Fred C. Thomson, who was at the height of his fame in 1927, but died tragically the following year, after stepping on a rusty nail in his stable and contracting tetanus.

Frederick Clifton Thomson was born in Pasadena, California, the third son of Rev. Williel and Clara Frances Thomson, on February 26, 1890. The senior Thomson was one of the founders of Occidental College and, when the campus relocated to Highland Park after the original Boyle Heights building was destroyed by fire, in 1897, they bought a Victorian house on Avenue 52 (HCM 541) while Fred and his brothers attended the college.

Fred Thomson was to excel as an athlete, particularly in track and field, setting several world records in the process. He was expected to go to the 1912 Olympics, but chose not to so he could get his degree in Divinity Princeton and become a Presbyterian Minister as had his father. After preaching for several years, he married fellow Oxy alum Gail Buboio Jepson, but she passed away three years later from tuberculosis while he was pastor in Goldfield, Nevada in 1916. He joined the army and was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant, serving as the Chaplain of the 143rd Artillery Regiment.

While serving in the military, his Division was visited by the actress, Mary Pickford, who soon became a close friend and set him on a course that was to change his life. It was during the war when Pickford introduced the young chaplain to her best friend, screenwriter Frances Marion Owens. It was love at first sight and the couple wed in November 1919, after Fred's return from Europe. Frances had been married and divorced twice before, and the "stigma" was such that Fred had to resign his Presbyterian ministry. The wedding made front page news in Frances' hometown of San Francisco, where Mary Pickford was the maid of honor in the private ceremony.

Through his wife and Pickford, Thomson found work as an actor, eventually settling into roles in Western movies. While visiting a New York riding stable, he bought a tall (17 hands high) dapple-grey (almost white) horse that he named Silver King. The two became inseparable with the horse becoming as famous as his rider, as Thomson's fame came to rival that of Tom Mix and William S. Hart in the silent era of Western movies. He was to act in over 30 movies, starring in most of them. Sadly, due to poor storage of the original acetate films, only one film "Thundering Hoofs" and the last two thirds of another, "Gallop and Gally", are known to have survived. The scripts, posters, stills and reviews from the others, including his later films under Paramount, are all that is available for the rest. With his experience as a preacher (his faith remained a major part in his life after leaving the pulpit), he was considered an actor of great potential to excel even more when the talkies were taking hold. His untimely death on Christmas day, 1928, at the age of 38, prevented that promise from ever coming into fruition. Silver King went on to appear in other films after Thomson's death, sometimes receiving star billing as he almost always did with Thomson. According to the Los Angeles Times, his pallbearers were his older brother, Henry Thomson, his attorney and college friend, David R. Faries, as well as Harold Lloyd, George Farrell, George Hill and William Randolph Hearst.

The building on Sunset remains as a legacy to the star who died too soon. It is emblematic of the era that he exemplified and serves as a reminder of the golden age of the silent Western and as a true exemplar of the Old Hollywood during its Golden Age.

The architectural partnership of Gogerty and Wehl was formed in 1926 and lasted only about two years. Besides the Thomson Building, they designed Spanish Baroque style Palace Theater at 1735 Vine Street, now the Avalon Hollywood and the Spanish Colonial Revival style Baine Building at 6601-09 Hollywood Boulevard, as well as the Shane Building at 6654 Hollywood Boulevard, all listed as contributors to the National Register Hollywood Blvd Commercial & Entertainment District. They also designed the Yucca Vine Tower, at 6301 Yucca Street, in 1929.

Henry L. Gogerty was born in Zearing, Iowa, on January 30, 1894 and received degrees in both architecture and engineering from the University of Illinois. After serving in field artillery in World War I, he settled in Los Angeles and opened his practice. Besides the work with Wehl, he is credited with designing over 350 schools in Southern California, where he pioneered the gliding classroom walls that allowed for the reconfiguration of the learning spaces as needed. He also designed numerous innovative industrial complexes, such as the Hughes Aircraft complex in Mar Vista that assembled the Spruce Goose and later Hughes buildings, as well as shopping centers, office buildings jails and buildings for Bendix Aviation and the Union Pacific Railroad. He designed and then operated the Desert Sir Hotel and Palm Desert Air Park until he retired in 1968. He passed Away in Los Angeles on January 4, 1990, at the age of 96.

Carl Jules Weyl was born in Stuttgart, Germany, on December 6, 1890. His father, Karl Friedrich Weyl, was also an architect and the field engineer of the famed Gotthard Rail Tunnel through the Alps. Weyl received his architectural training at the Ecole des Beaux Art Academy in Paris, where he earned both architectural and engineering degrees, before he immigrated to the United States in 1912. He married California native Irma Lois Chase and settled in Los Angeles. The couple had one son, Carl Jules Weyl, Jr. Weyl passed away in Los Angeles on July 12, 1948, at the age of 57.

He worked as an architect in California, first in San Francisco for the architect John W. Reid, Jr., a designer of the San Francisco Civic Center and many schools. Weyl moved to Los Angeles in 1923, where he designed the Brown Derby Restaurant #2 at 1628 N. Vine Street (Demolished in 1994 due to damage from the Northridge Earthquake), the Gaylord Apartments at 3355 Wilshire Boulevard, the York Boulevard State Bank Building (HCM 581) at 5061 York Boulevard, in Highland Park, the Herman Building, at 1638-40 N. Vine Street, as well as many other buildings and Hollywood estates. After the Thomson Building was completed, Weyl opened his architectural office in the complex. When building slowed during the Great Depression, Weyl began working as a set designer for Cecil B. DeMille Productions and then for Warner Brothers as their art director. He won an Oscar in the category Best Art Direction for the film The Adventures of Robin Hood. He was also nominated in the same category for the film Mission to Moscow.

The Spanish Colonial design that is utilized in the Fred C. Thomson Building is reminiscent of the historic adobe found in parts of New Mexico, especially the cities of Santa Fe and Taos. These were designs that frequently appeared the early silent films, but the different versions of Ramona (including the second version that starred Mary Pickford) show a romanticized design of the Mexican haciendas of the prior century. This concept can be seen in Theodore and Percy Eisen's design of the Casa de Adobe (HCM 493) at 4605 N. Figueroa Street, in Highland Park. The New Mexican version is more influenced by the Pueblo designs in the multiple stories found in those buildings.

California became the major location for the design and construction in the Spanish Colonial Revival style, especially in the coastal cities. In 1915 the San Diego Panama-California Exposition, with master architects Bertram Goodhue and Carleton Winslow Sr., popularized the style in the state and nation. It is best exemplified in the California Quadrangle, built as the grand entrance to that Exposition. In the early 1920s, architect Lilian Jeannette Rice designed the style in the development of the town of Rancho Santa Fe in San Diego County. The city of Santa Barbara adopted the style to give it a unified Spanish character after widespread destruction in the 1925 Santa Barbara earthquake. Its County Courthouse, designed by William Mooser III, is a prime example of the style. Real estate developer Ole Hanson favored the Spanish Colonial Revival style in his founding and development of San Clemente, California in 1928. The Pasadena City Hall by John Bakewell, Jr. and Arthur Brown, Jr., and the Beverly Hills City Hall by Harry G. Koerner and William J. Gage are other notable civic examples in California. Between 1922 and 1931, architect Robert H. Spurgeon constructed 32 Spanish colonial revival houses in Riverside California and many of them have been preserved.

Spanish Colonial Revival architecture shares some elements with the earlier Mission Revival style derived from the architecture of the California missions, and Pueblo Revival style from the traditional Puebloan peoples in New Mexico. Both precedents were popularized in the Western United States by the Fred Harvey and his Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Depots and Hotels. The Spanish Colonial Revival style is also influenced by the American Craftsman style and Arts and Crafts Movement.

Spanish Colonial Revival architecture is characterized by a combination of detail from several eras of Spanish Baroque, Spanish Colonial, Moorish Revival and Mexican Churrigueresque architecture. The style is marked by the prodigious use of smooth plaster (stucco) wall and chimney finishes, low-pitched clay tile, shed, or flat roofs, and terracotta or cast concrete ornaments. Other characteristics typically include small porches or balconies, arched or wood casement windows and decorative iron trim, as found on the subject building.

The courtyard is the focal point of the building, in which a mature olive tree was planted at the time of construction, after which the courtyard was named “The Court of the Olive Tree”. The original permit calls out “shops and studios” for the use of the building. Shortly after construction, the space at 6530 Sunset, which is in the rear of the courtyard, was made into the first of a series of restaurants, beginning with “Mary Helen Tea Room”, followed by such eateries as the “Gourmet Restaurant”, which operated from the early 1930s until 1962. In 1959, the Los Angeles Times reported that the business was bought by a long-time waitress for $50,000.00. “Moana Loa”, a Polynesian restaurant opened in 1962, but closed a year later. The “Garden Room”, an American fare, operated from 1963 until 1965. Francis Hung opened the “Mouling Restaurant”, a Chinese venue, which he ran from 1965 until 1982. “Sunset Gardens”, a Mediterranean restaurant operated from 1982 until 1984. The Cat and Fiddle moved in by 1985 and was to become such an iconic restaurant that the building became known by that name for the next 32 years (it was the name assigned to the building in the 2010 Hollywood survey). After a steep rise in rent, the restaurant moved out in 1914 to another location. The most recent restaurant, “The Hearth and Hound”, a British style venue, was the most recent occupant of the restaurant space.

Other spaces have served as clothing stores, radio studios, and office space (including the office of the architect Carl Jules Weyl). The building was recently refurbished by the current owners.

Ownership over the years starts with the Christy Realty Corporation, which bought the land from Frank D. J. Rice in 1925. Fred Thomson may have leased the land from the Christy Corporation or set up a trust which kept it under their ownership. After his death, the Thomson Corporation retained control until 1932, when it was sold back to Frank D. J. Rice and his wife, Jenna M. Rice.

Franklin D. J. Rice was born in Chatham-Kent, Ontario, Canada, on July 27, 1860. He immigrated to the United States in 1887 and became a citizen in 1893. He married Jennie around 1890 and they were living in Los Angeles by 1900, where Frank worked as a traveling salesman. A decade later, he was still in sales, specializing in the fur trade. After investing in real estate in the 1920s, including the subject property, he was able to retire from sales. His wife died around 1933, but he remarried in 1940. His new wife, Martha, was also from Canada and they were living on Doheny Drive, in Beverly Hills. Frank D. J. Rice passed away on August 23, 1944, at the age of 84. His executor, John Mellon, sold the building to the famed ventriloquist, Edgar Bergen, on November 10, 1945.

Edgar John Berggren was born in Chicago, Illinois, on February 16, 1903. His family returned to their native Sweden, when he was 4, but returned to Chicago 7 years later and it was about that time that the 11 year old Edgar took up ventriloquism by learning it from a pamphlet called “The Wizard’s Manual”. His mother wanted him to be a doctor, and he took up medical studies at Northwestern University. He soon changed major to speech and drama, but never got his degree. By the 1920s he was doing the vaudeville circuit with Charlie McCarthy, the first and most famous of his wooden characters (McCarthy now resides at the Smithsonian Institution.), dropping two letters from his own name to make it easier to pronounce. During the 1930s, their popularity grew as they also performed in movies and began a radio show in 1936. In 1947, Bergen established “California Interests” as his business venture and transferred the building into that entity. The following year, he converted the space at 6540 Sunset Boulevard into a state of the art radio studio and began to broadcast his show through that facility for NBC. By the end of that year, he suspended the broadcast due to competition from other radio shows. He started broadcasting “The Charlie McCarthy Show” for CBS from the studio in October of 1949 until competition from television ended it on July 1, 1956. Bergen retained ownership under Cal Interests, Inc. until February 16, 1968, when he sold it to Jax Investments. He passed away at the age of 75, shortly after a performance with Andy Williams, in Las Vegas, Nevada, on September 30, 1978. He had recently filmed his portion of “The Muppet Movie”, the last film in which he and McCarthy appeared. He was the father of the actress/comedienne Candice Bergen. The Bergen studio is now occupied by Studio Shamshiri, an interior design firm specializing in historic properties.

It was under the Jax Investments, through Robert Tebow, that the building was upgraded to meet the current seismic standards, a process that took several years on the unusual masonry structure. Jax Investments also acknowledged the historic nature of the building, having a plaque installed in the courtyard that read:

THIS BUILDING
ERECTED IN 1928
HAS BEEN DESIGNATED AN HISTORIC LANDMARK
OWNERS – JAX INVESTMENTS

The building was transferred to Cat and Fiddle Office LLC, c/o Howard Shannon, on September 14, 2005. By then it had become known by the name of the iconic restaurant. A decade later, after the restaurant had left the building, it was transferred to 6550 Sunset Boulevard LLC, c/o Jesse Shannon, on October 7, 2015, which is headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Fred C. Thomson Building qualifies for Los Angeles Historic Cultural Monument on two criteria. First, it embodies the distinctive characteristics of a style, type, period, or method of construction as an example of Spanish Colonial architecture and represents a notable work of the noted architects Henry L. Gogerty and Carl Jules Weyl. Secondly, it is associated with the lives of historic personages important to national, state, city and local history through its association with silent film cowboy Fred C. Thomson, who had it built, and later, its ownership and use by ventriloquist Edgar Bergen.

Located adjacent to the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce building, the structure located at 6536 W. Sunset Blvd was originally opened as a Spanish style shopping court fronting Sunset Blvd for 200 feet by owner Fred Thompson. Total cost of construction was estimated at $100,000. It was designed with a large central Spanish courtyard surrounded by shops and studios. A full grown olive tree was planted in the center, after which the court was named, "The Court of the Olive Tree." The architect was Gogerty & Weyl and the contractor was Henry Boller. The decorator was Stefan Hobercheck ("Studio Building Under Way, Shopping Court to Open in October," LA Times, 3 Jul 1927, E8). According to...(continued on next page)

Thompson will remain here this week, but will go to Los Angeles next week to begin training.

He will be tendered a reception and banquet at the association rooms next Monday night, the function being also a farewell to the retiring director, E. A. Merwin. Arrangements for the banquet were concluded today. P. E. Hatch will act as toastmaster.

Shopping Court to Open in October

$100,000 Hollywood Investment

WITHIN ninety days Hollywood will be bidden to attend the formal opening of Fred Thompson's Spanish shopping court fronting on Sunset Boulevard for 200 feet and located directly adjacent to the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce Building.

The ground breaking for this structure, which will cost $100,000, was held Monday, the 20th inst. The structure was designed by Architects Gogerty & Weyl. It will have a large Spanish patio or court in the center of which the shops and studios will overlook. Typical Spanish shrubbery and a Spanish well will characterize it. One of the features, is a full-grown olive tree in the center, after which the court has taken its name, "The Court of the Olive Tree."

Henry Boller has been awarded the contract to erect the building, and though delayed somewhat in starting, says that he will have everything completed for occupancy by October 1. The decorating will be handled by Stefan Howbercheck.

The long-heralded Southern California plant of the Goodrich Rubber Company will soon be under construction on Mirages avenue. The Goodrich Rubber Company announced the award of contract to Foundation Company of New York, probably the largest building contractors in the world.

The building is to be constructed in a Spanish mission style to conform with architecture prevalent in Southern California.

In order that the Spanish design of this industrial plant shall be absolutely authentic, Jules Weyl of Gogerty & Weyl, Hollywood architects, left last Tuesday for New York City to inspect the drawings. Gogerty & Weyl are the designers of the Hollywood Play House, the Baine Building, and the new Fred Thomson Shopping Court now being erected on Sunset Boulevard opposite the Hollywood Athletic Club.

Gogerty & Weyl have just finished the plans for Fred Thomson's Shopping Court, which is expected to become one of the show places of Southern California when formally opened in October.

Doctors Feel Fear for Life of Thomson

Condition of Fred Thomson, screen actor noted for his portrayal of "western" heroes, who underwent a major operation recently, is regarded as precarious by attending doctors at the Queen of Angels Hospital. The actor was reported recovering several days ago but yesterday morning his condition took a turn for the worse and consulting physicians were called.

His illness was the result of a natural ailment and not due to any injury during his work, the doctors said. Thomson is the husband of Frances Marion, screen writer. During the war he was an army chaplain. In recent years he has been featured in the roles of cowboy heroes.

LOVE OF ACTOR LEFT TO WIFE

Fred Thomson's Will Gives
Son and Mother Estate

Bequests Made at Request of Mate, He Wrote

Property Set Forth as in Excess of $25,000

Fred O. Thomson, screen cowboy hero, former world champion athlete and an ordained minister, who died last Christmas night, left his entire estate to his son, Fred Thomson, Jr., 8 years of age, and to his mother, by the terms of his will, filed for probate late yesterday in Superior Court. To his wife, Frances Marion Thomson, he bequeathed his "love and affections."

Relative to the bequest to his wife, he wrote in his will: "I leave nothing to my wife, Frances Marion Thomson, save my love and affection. I do this at her request in the belief that she is already provided with sufficient means for her care."

By the terms of the document Mrs. Thomson is made guardian of their young son and his estate, which will amount to one-half the total of its value. The remaining one-half is willed to his mother, Mrs. Clara Thomson.

DIED IN WIFE'S ARMS

Thomson died Christmas night shortly before midnight in the arms of his wife at the Queen of Angels Hospital. His death culminated an illness of about a week, when he was operated on for gallstones. Uremia poisoning was the direct cause of his death, it is said.

His will was executed Monday from his cot at the hospital. The next night he died. His testament is brief, consisting of only two typewritten documents, and its value or estimate of its value is given of the estate, except that it is in excess of $25,000. In film circles Thomson was reputed a millionaire. David R. Farles, his attorney, who filed the will, is named as executor.

Thomson also failed to provide in his will for his little adopted son, Richard Thomson, 2 years of age, but explained that his wife will provide for him amply during her lifetime and remember him in her will at the time of her demise.

It was with a dramatic suddenness that Thomson died, according to those at his bedside. He was in his wife's arms and they had been talking and he had asked about his relatives and friends in the screen world.

"Frances, I love you so."

WIDOW PROSTRATED

With those words he died. Shortly afterward Mrs. Thomson was taken to their home in Beverly Hills. Yesterday she was prostrated by grief and under the care of a physician.

Tentative plans for the funeral were announced yesterday by Attorney Farles. These depend on the time of the arrival of Thomson's mother and his brother, Harrison Thomson, from Princeton, N. J. The latter is a professor at Princeton and his mother was to have started from there for Los Angeles yesterday. He also leaves another brother, Henry L. Thomson of this city. His father, Williel Thomson, an engineer, died some years ago.

Thomson's body was removed to the W. M. Strother funeral parlors, 8240 Hollywood Boulevard. It is probable interment will be at the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Farles announced.

Born at Pasadena February 25, 1891, Thomson was graduated from Occidental College and later took a theological course at Princeton University. He was graduated from Occidental in 1906, and while there achieved fame as an athlete in football, baseball and track. At Princeton, too, he became more famous as an athlete, winning the all-around field championship in track and field events.

MADE WORLD MARK

Many of the records he established while at Occidental remained for many years, while he added to his laurels after the World War in Inter-Ally Games by winning the pentathlon and shattering the world's record for hand-grenade throwing.

In 1918 he was named Boy Scout Commissioner for Nevada. This came after he resigned his pastorate in Reno.

When the United States entered the World War, Thomson joined immediately and became chaplain of the One Hundred and Forty-third Field Artillery, Fortieth Division. While at Camp Kearney, near San Diego, he broke his leg while playing in divisional football competition. It was through this mishap he met his wife.

Mary Pickford was mascot of the division and when she visited Thomson at the camp hospital she took Miss Marion with her and introduced her to the actor. The romance started from this introduction and Miss Marion and Thomson were wed after the war, nine years ago.

FILMS START SLOW

It was then that he came to California bent on a career in pictures. His climb up the ladder of fame started slowly and his first work was doubling for western heroes of the screen. His first role in a picture was given him by Mary Pickford in "The Love Night," in which he played opposite her and the hero-villian.

This brought him a contract at Universal when he made a serial titled "The Eagle's Talons." He played varied roles and then planned on trying a career as a western hero. These plans were delayed for a time because he could not get a good horse with which to work.

HORSE BRINGS SUCCESS

Finally at a riding academy in New York he spotted a horse which was an outlaw. He bought the horse and named it Silver King, which appeared with him in all of his pictures. His first western picture was made on the Universal lot for Joe Brown, a producer, at a cost of $10,000. It was an instant hit and later Thomson signed with F.B.O. and made three pictures.

In 1927 he became affiliated with Paramount, making two pictures, "Jesse James" and "The Pioneer Scout."

His last picture was "Kit Carson." Shortly before his death, his friends say, he was conferring with several firms for a new picture contract after the expiration of his agreement with Paramount.

Thomson was also a close friend of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight prize-fight champion. This friendship was formed during the war and on many occasions Tunney visited Thomson's home in the hills of Hollywood.

His greatest picture fan following, according to exhibitors, was in the smaller cities of the country and the so-called neighborhood playhouses.

A SUPER GREAT

[N THE passing of Fred Thomson the Southland loses one of its greatest athletes.

He was the forerunner of western athletic supremacy over the East

He carried the challenge of the West to the East back in 1910, when after graduating from Occidental College, he went to Princeton to take post-graduate work and there won the all-around championship of the world. He previously had won it in this city. Later he set up an all-time record of over 7400 points.

He was a simply marvelous athlete endowed with a great natural aptitude for all thing athletic. Football, track, baseball—they all came easy.

They were all fun to him. He never took them seriously. He was fired off the football squad at Occidental one year because he kidded the coach. That individual had to take him back because he was three-fourths of the team.

He was graduated from Occidental when he was 19—three years ahead of the average college youth. When he went to Princeton to study theology he was ineligible for further college football, but he turned out just the same—for the fun of it. And they still tell the story at Princeton of how Fred Thomson wrecked the varsity night after night.

He was literally an uncrowned all-American.

His track duels in the shot with Harry Trotter, the old U.S.O. star will never be forgotten. Thomson still holds the Occidental record. He was a one-man track team. He ran the hurdles, threw the hammer high jumped, broad jumped, ran on the relay team—in fact filled in wherever Occidental needed points.

I've known him since he was a kid. Our backyards abutted in Highland Park. Like other kids I admired him for his tremendous strength. It seemed to have no limit.

I mourn his passing. He was a rugged, virile youth, a powerful man, a clean-cut film hero who carried out his code to the end. The kid fans of the films will miss him.

So do the old kids who grew up with him at Highland Park.

rites today for Thomson

Three College Mates to Officiate for Film Star; Celebrities Wire Condolences

Last rites for Fred C. Thomson, film actor, will be conducted today at 10:30 a.m. from the Beverly Hills Community Church. Interment will be postponed until Sunday to await the arrival of his relatives from the East.

The public services will be conducted with three college mates of the late film star officiating. These are Rev. Arthur Lee Odell, Rev. William E. Roberts and Rev. Paul Elliott. His body is to be placed in a temporary receiving vault until the interment Sunday at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

MOTHER DUE SUNDAY

According to word received yesterday, Thomson's mother and his brother Harrison, of the Princeton faculty, will arrive Sunday from Princeton, N. J.

The active pallbearers for the rites today will be Henry Thomson, an elder brother; David R. Farles, his attorney who is a former classmate and executor of his will; Harold Lloyd and Charles Farrell, screen actors; George Hill and William Randolph Hearst.

MANY WIRE SYMPATHY

More than 400 telegrams and cables from different parts of the world bearing condolences to the family were received at the Thomson home in the hills of Hollywood. One of the cables was from Gene Tunney, former world's champion prize-fighter, who was an intimate friend of Thomson.

Other wires came from Will Rogers and from political leaders in this and other States, from war-time officers of Thomson's regiment, the One Hundred and Forty-third Artillery, of which he was chaplain, and from his associates in the sporting world in which he won championship laurels in track and field events at Occidental College and at Princeton.

Thomson passed away at the Queen of Angels Hospital late Christmas night following an operation about a week before for gallstones. He leaves besides his mother and two brothers, his widow, Mrs. Frances Marlon Thomson, scenarist; a son, Fred Thomson, Jr., 3 years of age, and an adopted son, Richard, 2 years of age.

FIRE ENGINE SOUGHT

Claim of ownership in behalf of the city of a chemical fire engine used by Thomson is to be made by the Fire Commission. The engine, purchased by Thomson for private use on his Beverly Hills estate, had been deeded by him to the fire department some time ago.

Commissioner Rochester recalled the board's attention to the gift and on his motion Acting President Laws appointed Commissioner Wenning to inform the film star's heirs of the deed of gift, so that the engine will not be included in his estate when the will is probated. The engine is valued at $1200.

NEW BABY ARRIVES

F. Hugh Herbert, scenarist at the Paramount studio, yesterday received the congratulations of his fellow-workers following the arrival of a daughter, Diana Herbert. She weighs eight pounds and was born Christmas Day at the Hollywood Hospital. Mrs. Herbert and the new arrival are doing nicely.

DEATH WRITES FINIS TO CAREER OF EQUINE STAR

Most Famous Horse in World Misses Familiar Caress of Dead Master

BY HARRY CARR

SILVER KING moves restlessly in his great box stall. He waits for the caress of a familiar hand; for the sound of a well-loved voice forever stilled.

His days as a motion-picture star ended with the death of Fred Thomson on Christmas night.

Silver King is the most famous horse in the world. Little boys in the villages of China know Silver King as well as their pet dogs. Little boys in Brooklyn name their toy horses after him. Not even the great horses of history—Alexander's famous war horse, Robert E. Lee's Traveler, Napoleon's favorite battle charger—were known to as many people as Fred Thomson's Silver King.

The superb Irish hunter is more than a horse; he is a practiced, skilled and experienced actor.

Silver King knows his stuff as a screen actor just as well as any human actor—a great deal better than most of them.

It has been told elsewhere in The Times how Mr. Thomson found him in a New York riding academy where he was regarded as an outlaw. How he tamed him by throwing him and spanking him with a little end of a rope.

BECAME FRIENDS

Thereafter, they became friends; their relations were more like two pals than a horse and master. Silver King knew what he had to do before a camera and resented bitterly any interference.

He learned to know that anything going on in front of the camera before the thing begins to click is just in the nature of a rehearsal. And he regarded rehearsals with the bored disdain of most other actors.

He would walk in front of the tripod without the slightest interest in the proceedings. His manner was that of an old-bulk wagon horse trudging along toward the end of the route. But just as soon as he heard the click-click-click, he knew that film was being made and he became all fire and excitement.

In time he learned to know the range of the camera. He would come past the angle of the camera's vision, fighting like a wild animal.

The Late Fred Thomson and His Horse Silver King

FAMOUS HORSE LOSES MASTER

on hind legs and plunging. Just as soon as the camera's eye was passed, he at once stopped acting up and came to a quiet stand still, looking around at his master, saying as plainly as words, "Well, Fred, what's your next shot?"

In order to get up speed, the famous Thomson's "truis-to-the-rescue" were started at some distance from the camera. They—his and his rider—would take station at some distance away; the camera would start clicking, and then the director would shout for them to come on—at a wild run.

Mr. Thomson said he narrowly escaped being thrown many times while waiting for the start. Silver King's quick ears would hear the distant click of the camera, and Fred would suddenly feel the race horse start with one furious leap from under him. He never waited for the director's yell.

FOURTEEN DOUBLES

On account of his great value, they tried to save Silver King from as much danger as possible. Fred raked and scraped all the western States for horses that could "double" for the king. Oftentimes there have been as many as fourteen imitation Silver Kings in the Thomson stables.

The reason so many were necessary was that Fred never could find another complete Silver King. One "double" could jump as well as the other had his fine appearance. Another could be relied upon to run with the same absolute steadiness. But they never found another horse with all Silver King's stuff.

The great asset of this thoroughbred was that when sprightliness was needed, he acted like an unbroken broncho. When steady reliability was needed for some of Thomson's dangerous leaps, Silver King ambled along like an old freight train.

One thing he never could resign himself to was the use of a horse doubling for him. As a matter of fact, they learned to make the doubling scenes when Silver King was not present.

One time they had to make a scene where the horse leaped over a precipice into a lagoon. In order to save King from possible injury and hence an expensive delay in his picture, they had another horse take the leap.

During the taking of the shot Silver King was tied to the back of one of the property wagons. When he saw Thomson mount the other horse and ride him over the cliff Silver King acted about like rather prima donna. He had just left tantrums; squealed and kicked and reared. When the shot was set a groom untied him. Silver King yanked the tether rope out of the man's hands, galloped to the edge of the cliff and made the same cap himself. Nobody was going to be allowed to take any star scenes away from him while he retained his health and strength.

RESENTS CONFINEMENT

At another time, it was decided, for some reason, that it would be necessary to keep him shut in his stall. This verdict he resented with high indignation.

Every morning they shut him in; every morning they found him outside. They never found a latch or rope that he couldn't untie.

Thomson got up very early one morning to see how he did it. Silver King nosed up the latch, then unhooked the knot with his teeth. He did not immediately go through the door. He went back to his manger and began innocently eating hay. He would look around and cock his ears to find out if anybody had seen his deception. At last, when he thought the coast clear, he made a dash for the door.

His relations with Thomson were on two paws. Fred could turn him loose in the lot and make him go through the most elaborate maneuvers; turning, coming and going, simply by the sound of his voice. And what a kick Silver King got out of this stunt!

An experienced, highly educated zoologist, Thomson made a careful study of Silver King's mind. Based on the army intelligence tests. The conclusion to which he came was that a highly bred horse exceeds a dog in intelligence in about the proportions of 3 to 5. He reached this conclusion largely upon the horse's powers of memory. Silver King showed every evidence of human affection for his master. On one occasion, Thomson was badly hurt. He had to leap from Silver King's back to the back of a runaway team of stage horses. The race to which he leaped was not usual to the shock; or did not know how to brace himself for the shock he galloped. He fell; the whole team went down; the heavy stage wagon passed over Mr. Thomson's legs, snapping the thigh bone. Seeing the disaster, Silver King pulled sharply in his run and came back once to Thomson's side, nosing him with the most anxious air of concern.

Imagine that Silver King would have killed a groom who tried to use him; but he never balked at any dangerous stunt. He would take bets that would fairly make the ears of a spectator tingle, without the slightest flicker of hesitation. He would go anywhere that Fred would. He was a brave gentleman; but he needed to be treated like a gentleman.

He lived like a king. He had a special trailer car with his name on it like a star. His silver saddle cost some fortune. He had a wonderful bride that had been made with loving care by a cowlick — a "fifer" — in a penitentiary in the Middle West and sent to him.

TENDED LIKE BABY

His personal attendant was an old groom who was a joke around the establishment. He tended to the horse like a baby and talked to him like a buccaneer. He was always in the most amiable tones — telling him that if he didn't stand over, he was going to cut his fool throat with an ax. Silver King enjoyed the joke. He had never been beaten or punched in his life.

By way of parenthesis, I might say that Fred Thomson had this same power over all animals. He had a fierce fighting bull which he used in his picture work. For anyone else to go into the pen with him was a short route to painless and sudden suicide. Fred could do gymnastic "hand stands" on his horns.

I remember that somebody sent Fred a strange little South American animal. It was something like a raccoon. I happened to be there when they got acquainted. Fred picked it up in his arms. The pitiful, frightened little thing bit him in a frenzy of terror. Fred just let him bite and bite until the animal saw there was neither danger or resentment. Fred wiped off the blood and they were thereafter friends.

In the nature of things, Silver King will now pass into other hands. But this is a case where one can see the philosophy of the old Indian custom of giving the dead chief a favorite horse upon which to ride proudly into the happy hunting grounds.

Estate $183,652

The late Fred C. Thompson, athlete and film actor, left an estate of $183,652 to his 5-year-old son and his mother, Mrs. Clara F. Thompson, according to an accounting of the property filed yesterday by Attorney David R. Faries, executor of the will.

Payment of taxes and other claims left a balance of $165,372, according to the court records. Thompson, who died Christmas Day, 1928, left nothing to his widow, Frances Marion Thompson, at her own request. She is amply provided for financially, it was stated.

Now, she's carrying the whole place.

Just bought it.

The restaurant, long a Hollywood landmark at 6530 Sunset Blvd., was originated 30 years ago by Mrs. Henrietta F. Werder, who now resides in Palm Desert.

Mrs. Rushton, wife of a retired auditor for the U.S. government, went to work there as a waitress 11 years ago.

In the ensuing decade, the place had no less than 30 managers.

Mrs. Werder began to get fed up with this.

So did Mary.

So?

So, Mary bought the place.

And it isn't every day that waitresses go around buying well known, $50,000 restaurants.

Edgar Bergen, 75, Found Dead in Vegas Hotel Suite

BY BILL HAZLETT
 Times Staff Writer

Edgar Bergen, who turned a block of white pine named Charlie McCarthy into a national institution, died in his sleep Saturday from an apparent heart attack in his Las Vegas hotel suite.

The 75-year-old ventriloquist opened Wednesday at Caesars Palace for a two-week engagement with Andy Williams and the Lennon Sisters.

Harry Wald, executive vice president of the desert resort where Bergen was booked through Oct. 11, said the entertainer's body was found by his wife, Frances, when she went to awaken him about noon.

Wald said Bergen had been enthusiastically received in Las Vegas. "He was doing great . . . standing ovations at every show," Wald said.

The ventriloquist's actress-daughter, Candice, and his teen-ago son, Kris, had attended their father's opening night performance.

Bergen's engagement in Las Vegas was a sort of farewell appearance since he announced Sept. 21 that he was retiring from show business after 56 years. After Las Vegas, he had planned only two subsequent concert appearances, both in December and with Williams. They were to have been in Cleveland and Cincinnati.

At the time of his retirement announcement, Bergen said he planned to bequeath his impish dummy—Charlie McCarthy—to the Smithsonian Institution, "where he will probably sit in Archie Bunker's chair."

which went on display there earlier this month.

Later, Bergen incorporated his plans into his routine, asking his wise-cracking foil how he was going to like going to Washington, D.C.

"Well, at least I won't be the only dummy in Washington," Charlie would answer in his distinctive, high-pitched voice.

Williams told The Times Saturday that Charlie McCarthy's political irreverence was not typical of Bergen. "He was such a kind and gentle man that such quips bothered him," said Williams, who had dinner with Bergen between their two Friday night appearances.

"He thought maybe he shouldn't have said that . . . about dummies in politics because it might hurt someone's feelings."

Williams, a former neighbor of Bergen in the Holmby Hills area of Los Angeles, said the ventriloquist seemed in "excellent spirits" after a light supper.

"I was kidding him about the rock-and-roll music being played by a lounge group as we walked by," Williams said.

"He wasn't crazy about rock-and-roll music, so he decided to go to his suite to get ready for the second show, saying something about how he'd 'try to make it,' as he left. "We laughed.

"Of course, he did make it . . . it was wonderful . . . he did about 20 minutes, and then, when he came to the end of his performance, he said:

"All acts have a beginning and an end . . . and I think that time has come for me. So, I think I'll just pack up my jokes and my friends, and as the days dwindle down to a precious few . . . September, November . . ."

"That was the way he always ended his act," Williams said.

"Then, he just took his cart—the one he uses to carry Charlie and the other dummies—and walked off the stage while the orchestra continued playing "September Song," and the crowd rose to their feet.

"He always got a standing ovation. I've never seen such response. The audience would stand and applaud for three

"He always got a standing ovation. I've never seen such response. The audience would stand and applaud for three . . . four minutes. Edgar was happy; he just couldn't believe it.

"He told me, 'If I had known my retirement was going to create such a sensation, I would have retired 10 years ago.'"

Williams, who finished the show, said he bid Bergen goodnight, then turned to the audience and said something he had never said before, without really knowing what he had said.

"I told them Bergen was one of the real giants of show business and that we were all privileged to see him in his last performance," Williams said.

"I don't know what made me say that; it was the first time I'd used those exact words."

"He was such a gentle person. He even thanked me for the opportunity to work in Las Vegas. We're all going to miss him," the singer said.

Bergen, the soft-spoken comedian who hid behind the brash antics of Charlie McCarthy, the dollish Mortimer Snerd and Biffie Klunker, the spry old maid, was born Feb. 16, 1903, in Chicago. His Swedish parents, John and Nellie Bergen, operated a retail dairy business.

He later lived on a farm near Decatur, Mich., from which the family returned to Sweden, where young Bergen learned the language—hence Charlie McCarthy's Duency in Swedish—before again going to the Chicago area.

The Bergen-McCarthy partnership, which was to span six decades, began about 1920 while Bergen was still a student at Lakeview High School in Chicago.

The idea for McCarthy, Bergen later explicated, came from a cocky Irish newsboy who used to hawk newspapers in the neighborhood.

Bergen made sketches of the newsboy and took them to a carpenter named Theodore Mack, who carved the dummy's head from a block of white pine.

Charlie's head cost $35. Bergen made the body himself and immediately began entertaining classmates and teachers.

Bergen's career paralleled the evolution of entertainment in this country. He was the prototypical vaudeville performer, working the Chautauqua circuit, the Lyceum theaters, then vaudeville followed by radio, nightclubs, motion pictures and television.

In 1937, he was awarded a special Academy Award for his many film shorts and his appearances in motion picture musicals.

Bergen, who became the world's most famous ventriloquist, was best known for his routines with the brash, impudent McCarthy and the gap-toothed dimwit Mortimer Snerd.

The ventriloquist and his friends made their radio debut in 1936, with the help of Rudy Vallee, and by the following year were starring in their own show.

Bergen parlayed his radio success into a career that stretched more than 30 years in a continuous run surpassed only the late Bing Crosby and Amos 'n' Andy.

Charlie and Bergen traded quips with such entertainment giants as W.C. Fields, Don Ameche and John Barrymore.

The wise-cracking Charlie often ridiculed Bergen and accused him of an inability to throw his voice without moving his lips. Charlie also joked about Bergen's retirement plans. "How can you retire when you haven't worked since you met me?" the dummy asked Bergen.

The ventriloquist and his wooden friends were successful in Hollywood where they made a score of short films in in addition to several million-dollar musicals like "Goldwyn Follies," in 1938.

The next year Bergen's ventriloquial talents were used in two more films, "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," with W. C. Fields, and "Charlie McCarthy, Detective."

Those early films were followed by others such as "Look Who's Laughing," "Stage Door Canteen," and the 1944 opus, "Song of the Open Road," again with W. C. Fields.

McCarthy had a long-running feud with Fields and often asked the portly comedian, "Are you eating a tomato, or is that your nose?"

To which Fields would always reply, "Why, you block-head! I'm going to feed you into a pencil sharpener."

Bergen made ventriloquism popular in nightclubs and theaters, but it was in radio that he found the ideal medium. His efforts at television were never highly successful, although he enjoyed great popularity in TV specials and countless guest appearances.

Charlie McCarthy remained forever the cheeky, sharp-tongued youth dressed in top hat and monocle, always ready with an answer.

But, in a recent interview with The Times, Charlie mentioned a little when Bergen disclosed a heart condition.

"Well, I guess there comes a time when we have to go it alone," Charlie said. "And we have shared a lot of love and glory."

Funeral services are pending.

For Hollywood, a Pub of Its Own

There are some things you won't usually find at the Cat & Fiddle. A trendy Los Angeles attitude, for instance. And it's not dark and dank like some bars.

But the Cat & Fiddle does serve up tasty English specialties. It offers live music on its garden patio. And it's a great place to sink a pint of beer and sling some darts.

"The way I see it," said owner Kim Gardner, 46, "a pub is a poor man's nightclub."

More than a decade ago, the English native and his wife, Paula, got tired of driving to Santa Monica to drink "decent pints of beer." So Gardner decided it was time that Hollywood had a pub of its own.

With little experience and a lot of enthusiasm, Gardner, a musician who has played bass with the likes of Eric Clapton, Rod Stewart and the Rolling Stones, set out to create a British pub, complete with dartboards and a snooker table.

"At first, I thought it was a strange gig for a bass player," Gardner said. "I didn't know anything about the (restaurant) business."

He opened the 50-seat bar on Laurel Canyon Boulevard and named it in honor of a pub where he played stand-up bass as a teen-ager. It was an instant success. Two years later, the pub moved to its present location at 6530 Sunset Blvd., once home of the popular Chinese restaurant Sunset Gardens.

Despite its British offerings, the decor is more like that of a Mexican ranch house. It is built around a romantic Mediterranean-style terrace. The patio is surrounded by white, stucco walls and wrought-iron gates. Tiny lights are strung through trees, making it a great place to dine and watch the stars.

Using some of his mother's recipes, Gardner serves up traditional pub fare, including shepherd's pie, lamb chops, fish and chips, bangers and mash. A good selection of English beers are on tap, which has helped to attract a loyal following of customers.

"We'll grab dinner and a couple of beers," said Rohitash Rao, a Hollywood resident and an art director who stopped by on a recent Tuesday night. "The atmosphere is very friendly. . . . It's so wonderful to sit outside and have a beer."

Every Sunday from 7 to 11 p.m., the restaurant features the Pat Britt/Wilbur Brown & Friends Jazz Quintet on the patio. Occasionally, Gardner plays a set or two.

"They have great music," said regular customer Shawn Gallipeau. "There's something for everyone here."

Hollywood's The Cat & Fiddle Officially Turns off the Patio Lights on December 15

The legendary Hollywood watering hole closes its doors on December 15 following a lease dispute.

The Cat & Fiddle

Big news out of Hollywood over the weekend. The Cat & Fiddle on Sunset, that 32-year old patio courtyard restaurant/bar known for their big holiday parties and long-relaxed smoking policy, is shutting down December 15.

News began to trickle in slowly on Saturday night, but a call to the shuttering afternoon drinking spot confirms that they'll be locking the doors come mid-December. The landlord has apparently found a tenant for the popular location that's willing to pay twice the current lease amount. Not surprising, given the area's growth and all of that beautiful outdoor space, fountain included.

Obviously, Cat & Fiddle's always rockin' New Year's Eve party isn't happening, as ownership will still be searching out a new location to inhabit, but Halloween is still on as planned, and December 15 is set to serve as a de facto going-away bash for employees, ownership and longtime regulars. Who said gentrification was a good thing?

Frederick Clifton Thomson (February 26, 1890 – December 25, 1928) was an American silent film cowboy<sup>[1]</sup> who rivaled Tom Mix in popularity before dying at age 38 of tetanus.

Birth and athletic achievement

Born in Pasadena, California to Clara and Willuell Thomson, he was the third of four sons. His father was a Presbyterian minister.<sup>[3]</sup> His brother Samuel Harrison Thomson also attended Princeton University and won the all-round athlete of America title for 1919.<sup>[5]</sup>

He attended the Princeton Theological Seminary from 1910–13 and he won the All-Around Champion title given out by the Amateur Athletic Union in 1910, 1911, and 1913.<sup>[6][8][10][11]</sup>

He married his college sweetheart, Gail Jepson and was ordained by the Presbytery of Los Angeles in September 1913. Three years later, Gail Jepson died of tuberculosis.

During World War I, Thomson served in the 143rd Field Artillery Regiment, known informally at the time as the Mary Pickford Regiment.<sup>[12]</sup> Thomson joined the 143rd in Arcadia, California as a U. S. Army chaplain. While playing football, he broke his leg. Movie star Mary Pickford visited the patients in the hospital ward with her friend, screenwriter Frances Marion. Thomson and Marion agreed to marry after the war was over.<sup>[13]</sup> The 143rd were sent to France in August 1918, but did not see any action before the armistice on November 11, 1918.

Movie career

Fred Thomson

Thomson (ca. 1927 or 1928)

Born	February 26, 1890 Pasadena, California, U.S.
Died	December 25, 1928 (aged 38) Los Angeles, California, U.S.
Spouse(s)	Gail Dubois Jepson (m. 1913–16) Frances Marion (m. 1919–28) (his death); 2 children

Thomson and Marion were married on November 2, 1919, at the Memorial Baptist Church in New York City, with Pickford as maid of honor.

Initially interested in directing, he ended up acting in one of Frances' films Just Around the Corner (1921). The movie was a success. Next, he had a co-starring role in another Pickford movie, The Love Light (1921), which was also directed and written by Frances. In 1923, Thomson starred in his own action serial for Universal, The Eagle's Talons, in which he performed his own stunts.

Signed by Joseph P. Kennedy's studio Film Booking Offices of America, he made his debut for FBO in 1924's The Mask of Lopez. Thomson became a superstar at FBO: He was the No. 2 box office star for 1926 and 1927.<sup>[14]</sup> His April 1925 contract paid him $10,000 a week (equivalent to approximately $136,565 in 2017 dollars<sup>[15]</sup>) and also gave Thomson his own independent production unit at the studio.<sup>[16]</sup>

In 1927, Kennedy—sensing that Thomson had reached the peak of his popularity and seeing a financial opportunity for FBO—arranged a four-picture deal with Paramount Pictures, one of the major Hollywood studios. The deal essentially ceded Thomson to the rival studio. For guaranteeing $75,000 in financing, Thomson would star in Paramount productions. In return, Paramount would return the $75,000 in financing plus an additional $100,000 and pay Thomson $15,000 a week, wiping Thomson's salary off of FBO's books.<sup>[17]</sup>

Paramount's exhibition circuit was more prestigious than FBO's, and its theaters, many located in larger cities, charged a premium for a ticket. In addition, Paramount boosted the price of a Thomson picture to cover the backend deal with FBO and Thomson's hefty salary. The new production arrangement meant that Thomson fans in rural theaters that were the core of FBO's audience often had to wait months for a chance to see a new Thomson picture, if it was even released to backwater theaters, or were forced go to a larger city where the movie was playing on the Paramount circuit. Some critics found that a Thomson Western, which essentially were "B-pictures", were not suited for the high-end, more expensive theaters they were being shown in. As a result, the Thomson-Paramount Westerns proved not to be as profitable.<sup>[17]</sup>

Death

In early December 1928, Thomson stepped on a nail while working in his stables. Contracting tetanus, which his doctors initially misdiagnosed, he died in Los Angeles on Christmas Day 1928.<sup>[18]</sup> He was survived by his widow, and their children Richard Thomson (adopted) and Frederick C. Thomson.

Thomson was interred in Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale, California (Whispering Pines, L-163 section). Pallbearers at his funeral included Harold Lloyd, Charles Farrell, Douglas Fairbanks, and George W. Hill. Honorary pallbearers included Buster Keaton and movie mogul Joseph M. Schenck.

Fred C. Thomson in 1913 (George Grantham Bain Collection at the Library of Congress)

Fred and Silver King in Silver Comes Through (1927)

Silver King

Silver King was a white Palomino horse seventeen hands high. Al Rogell, who directed Thomson's first seven Western films, told about Silver King:

"He did all of the work...everything in the early pictures—the mouth work, the jumps, the chases, the falls, quick stops—and could untie knots, lift bars, etc. He could wink one eye, nod his head yes or no, push a person with his head. Thomson trained him to do certain things and expected him to perform them."<sup>[19]</sup>

After Thomson's death, Silver King appeared in a series of three-reel Westerns from Imperial Studios, starring Wally Wales.<sup>[20]</sup>

Surviving films

Only three of Thomson's movies have survived to the present day: Just Around the Corner is in the collection of the Library of Congress; The Love Light, starring Mary Pickford, has been released on VHS and DVD; and Thundering Hoofs has been released on VHS.

In Thundering Hoofs, Thomson performs a dangerous jump from a moving stagecoach to one of the horses pulling the coach. He fell and suffered a compound fracture of his right thigh. Yakima Canutt completed the stunt. Production of the movie was delayed for weeks while Thomson recovered from his injury.

Early life

Bergen was born in Chicago, Illinois, one of five children and the youngest of two sons of Swedish immigrants Nilla Svensdotter (née Osberg) and Johan Henriksson Berggren.<sup>[1]</sup> He lived on a farm near Decatur, Michigan until he was 4 when his family returned to Sweden where he learned the language. He taught himself ventriloquism from a pamphlet called "The Wizard's Manual" when he was 11 after his family returned to Chicago. He attended Lake View High School. After his father died when he was just 16, he went out to work as an apprentice accountant, a furnace stoke, a player piano operator, and a projectionist in a silent-movie house. The famous ventriloquist Harry Lester was so impressed by Edgar that he gave the teenager almost daily lessons for three months in the fundamentals of ventriloquism. In the fall of 1919, Edgar paid Chicago woodcarver Theodore Mack $36 to sculpt a likeness of a rascally red-headed Irish newspaperboy he knew. The head went on a dummy named Charlie McCarthy, which became Bergen's lifelong sidekick. He had created the body himself, using a nine-inch length of broomstick for the backbone, and rubber bands and cords to control the lower jaw mechanism of the mouth.

Edgar Bergen

Bergen with his ventriloquist dummy Charlie McCarthy in Stage Door Canteen (1943)

Born	Edgar John Berggren February 16, 1903 Chicago, Illinois, U.S.
Died	September 30, 1978 (aged 75) Paradise, Nevada, U.S.
Resting place	Inglewood Park Cemetery
Occupation	Actor, comedian, ventriloquist
Years active	1922–1978
Spouse(s)	Frances Westerman (m. 1945; died 1978)
Children	2, including Candice Bergen

For college he attended Northwestern University where he was enrolled in the pre-med program to please his mother. He switched to Speech & Drama but never completed his degree.<sup>[2]</sup> He gave his first public performance at Waveland Avenue Congregational Church located on the northeast corner of Waveland and Janssen. He lived across the street from the church. In 1965, he gave the church a generous contribution, a thoughtful letter, and a photograph of himself which had been requested by the minister and was displayed in the church's assembly room which was dedicated to Bergen. He cut out an "R" and a "G" from his family name and went from Berggren to Bergen on the showbills. Between June 1922 and August 1925, he performed every summer on the professional Chautauqua circuit and at the Lyceum theater in Chicago. Bergen had an interest in aviation, becoming a private pilot.<sup>[3]</sup>

The Chase and Sanborn Hour

His first performances were in vaudeville, at which point he legally changed his last name to the easier-to-pronounce "Bergen". He worked in one-reel movie shorts, but his real success was on the radio. He and Charlie were seen at a New York party by Elsa Maxwell for Noël Coward, who recommended them for an engagement at the famous Rainbow Room. It was there that two producers saw Bergen and Charlie perform. They then recommended them for a guest appearance on Rudy Vallée's program.

Their initial appearance (December 17, 1936) was so successful that the following year they were given regular cast rolls as part of The Chase and Sanborn Hour. Under various sponsors (and two different networks), they were on the air from May 9, 1937 to July 1, 1956. The popularity of a ventriloquist on radio, when one could see neither the dummies nor his skill, surprised and puzzled many critics, then and now. Even knowing that Bergen provided the voice, listeners perceived Charlie as a genuine person, but only through artwork rather than photos could the character be seen as truly lifelike. Thus, in 1947, Sam Berman caricatured Bergen and McCarthy for the network's glossy promotional book, NBC Parade of Stars: As Heard Over Your Favorite NBC Station.

Bergen's skill as an entertainer, especially his characterization of Charlie, carried the show (many of which have survived). Bergen's success on radio was paralleled in the United Kingdom by Peter Brough and his dummy Archie Andrews (Educating Archie).

For the radio program, Bergen developed other characters, notably the slow-witted Mortimer Snerd and the man-hungry Effie Klinker. The star remained Charlie, who was always presented as a highly precocious child (albeit in top hat, cape, and monocle)—a debonair, girl-crazy, child-about-town. As a child, and a wooden one at that, Charlie could get away with double entendres which were otherwise impossible under broadcast standards of the time.

Charlie: "May I have a kiss good-bye?"

Dale Evans: "Well, I can't see any harm in that!"

Charlie: "Oh. I wish you could. A harmless kiss doesn't sound very thrilling."

Charlie and Mae West had this conversation on December 12, 1937.

Charlie: "Not so loud, Mae, not so loud! All my girlfriends are listening."

Bergen and Charlie when they were vaudeville performers in 1926

Mae: "Oh, yeah! You're all wood and a yard long."

Charlie: "Yeah."

Mae: "You weren't so nervous and backward when you came up to see me at my apartment. In fact, you didn't need any encouragement to kiss me."

Charlie: "Did I do that?"

Mae: "Why, you certainly did. I got marks to prove it. An' splinters, too."

Charlie's feud with W. C. Fields was a regular feature of the show.

W. C. Fields: "Well, if it isn't Charlie McCarthy, the woodpecker's pinup boy!"

Charlie: "Well, if it isn't W.C. Fields, the man who keeps Seagram's in business!"

W. C. Fields: "I love children. I can remember when, with my own little unsteady legs, I toddled from room to room."

Charlie: "When was that? Last night?"

W. C. Fields: "Quiet, Wormwood, or I'll whittle you into a venetian blind."

Charlie: "Ooh, that makes me shutter!"

W. C. Fields: "Tell me, Charles, is it true that your father was a gate-leg table?"

Charlie: "If it is, your father was under it."

W. C. Fields: "Why, you stunted spruce, I'll throw a Japanese beetle on you."

Charlie: "Why, you bar-fly you, I'll stick a wick in your mouth, and use you for an alcohol lamp!"

Charlie: "Pink elephants take aspirin to get rid of W. C. Fields."

W.C. Fields: "Step out of the sun Charles. You may come unglued."

Charlie: "Mind if I stand in the shade of your nose?"

Bergen was not the most technically skilled ventriloquist—Charlie McCarthy frequently twitted him for moving his lips—but Bergen's sense of comedic timing was superb, and he handled Charlie's snappy dialog with aplomb. Bergen's wit in creating McCarthy's striking personality and that of his other characters was the making of the show. Bergen's popularity as a ventriloquist on radio, where the trick of "throwing his voice" was not visible, suggests his appeal was primarily the personality he applied to his characters.

Bergen and McCarthy are sometimes credited with "saving the world" because, on the night of October 30, 1938, when Orson Welles performed his War of the Worlds radio play that panicked many listeners, most of the American public had instead tuned to Bergen and McCarthy on another station and never heard Welles' play. Conversely, it has also been theorized that Bergen inadvertently contributed to the hysteria. When the musical portion of Bergen's show, The Chase and Sanborn Hour, aired approximately 12 minutes into the show, many listeners adjusted their dial and found the War of the Worlds presentation already underway with a realistic-sounding reporter detailing terrible events.

Ray Noble was the musical director and composer, and teenage singer Anita Gordon provided the songs on his show. Gordon was said to have been discovered by Charlie, who had a crush on her.

In the fall (autumn) of 1948, Edgar and Charlie faced serious competition from ABC's "jackpot" quiz show, Stop the Music, which suddenly drew more listeners (Fred Allen faced a similar problem because he directly appeared before them). In December 1948, Edgar announced he was temporarily "retiring" from radio, admitting that Stop the Music was too popular to compete with. His final NBC broadcast was on December 26, 1948.

Bergen and Charlie with an NBC-produced comic book On the Air, 1947.

The Charlie McCarthy Show

In October 1949, Bergen went to CBS, with a new weekly program, The Charlie McCarthy Show, sponsored by Coca-Cola. After their sponsorship ended in June 1952, Richard Hudnut, on behalf of "Lanolin Plus" cosmetics, primarily sustained the series until the end of the 1953–54 season. In October 1954, Kraft Foods sponsored a new Edgar Bergen Hour. After Kraft's departure, the series continued with participating sponsors as a 55-minute series in the fall of 1955. However, because more people were watching television on Sunday nights than listened to radio (and advertisers preferred to sponsor TV shows by then), the series finally ended on July 1, 1956.

Comic strip

In addition to his work as a ventriloquist, Bergen was also an actor and comic strip creator. He established the syndicated comic strip Mortimer & Charlie, which ran in newspapers from July 1939 to May 1940, illustrated first by Ben Batsford and then by Carl Buettner. The comic strip's writer was uncredited, but some of the gags certainly were lifted from the hit radio show.<sup>[4]</sup> Between 1947 and 1954 Harvey Eisenberg also drew a comic strip based on Charlie McCarthy, scripted by Bergen.<sup>[5]</sup>

Films

In the film Stage Door Canteen (1943) with Mortimer Snerd

Bergen and his alter ego Charlie McCarthy were given top billing in several films, including the Technicolor extravaganza The Goldwyn Follies (1938), opposite the Ritz Brothers. That year they also appeared in You Can't Cheat an Honest Man with W. C. Fields. At the height of their popularity in 1937, Bergen was presented an Honorary Oscar (in the form of a wooden Oscar statuette, the only wooden Oscar given so far) for his creation of Charlie McCarthy. Bergen, along with Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd were also featured in the 1938 film Letter of Introduction.

As an actor alone, Bergen portrayed the timid suitor of the sister Trina in I Remember Mama (1948), and appeared in Captain China (1949), The Hanged Man (1964) and Don't Make Waves (1967). Other film roles for the team include

Look Who's Laughing (1941) and Here We Go Again (1942), both with Fibber McGee and Molly. Charlie McCarthy wore a US Army uniform in Stage Door Canteen (1943) with Mortimer Snerd. Bergen and McCarthy were also featured in Disney's Fun and Fancy Free (1947). He later cameoed in all-star films such as The Phynx (1970), Won Ton Ton, the Dog Who Saved Hollywood (1976), and The Muppet Movie (1979). In 1977, Bergen had made a guest appearance on a second-season episode of The Muppet Show, the highly acclaimed television comedy/variety program produced by Jim Henson who considered Bergen a major inspiration.<sup>[6]</sup> His daughter Candice had also guest-starred on the show during its first season. Bergen died shortly after filming his Muppet Movie scene, which was also his final public appearance, and was subsequently dedicated to him. In 2009 Bergen was featured in the comedy documentary I'm No Dummy,<sup>[7]</sup> directed by Bryan W. Simon.

Television appearances

Although his regular series never made the transition to television, Bergen made numerous appearances on the medium during his career. His first appearance was with Charlie McCarthy on NBC's pioneering television variety show Hour Glass in November 1946. In a filmed Thanksgiving special, billed as his official TV debut, sponsored by Coca-Cola on CBS in 1950, the new character Podine Puffington was introduced; this saucy Southern belle was as tall as a real woman, in contrast to Bergen's other sit-on-the-knee sized characters. On Christmas Day that same year, Bergen and McCarthy appeared as guests on Walt Disney's first television show, One Hour in Wonderland.

In 1954, Bergen was a co-host on a memorable TV musical special, General Foods 25th Anniversary Show: A Salute to Rodgers and Hammerstein.

On December 26, 1954, Bergen appeared on What's My Line as a mystery guest. Bergen also hosted the television game show Do You Trust Your Wife? in 1956–1957, later succeeded, in a daytime edition, by Johnny Carson.

He appeared in the Christmas 1957 episode of NBC's The Gisele MacKenzie Show. In 1958, Bergen appeared with his 12-year-old daughter Candice on an episode of You Bet Your Life starring Groucho Marx. In 1959, he appeared in the second episode titled "Dossier" of the NBC espionage series Five Fingers starring David Hedison. On May 21, 1959, he guest-starred with Charlie McCarthy on NBC's The Ford Show, Starring Tennessee Ernie Ford. Bergen continued to appear regularly on television during the 1960s and into the 1970s, appearing on The Tonight Show as late as 1977. He guest-starred as Charlie in the 1960 episode "Moment of Fear" of CBS's The DuPont Show with June Allyson. He did a stint as one of the What's My Line? mystery guests on the popular Sunday night CBS series. His colleague Paul Winchell happened to be a panel member during that episode.<sup>[8]</sup> Bergen appeared on the NBC interview program Here's Hollywood.

Bergen appeared as Grandpa Zeb Walton in the original Waltons television movie, The Homecoming: A Christmas Story (1971). The role was played by Will Geer in the subsequent TV series. During the run of The Waltons — which took place throughout the 1930s and 1940s—the voices of Bergen and Charlie McCarthy were sporadically heard from the Waltons' radio, as family members regularly tuned in for that program.

Family

In 1941, Bergen met 19-year-old Frances Westerman, who had graduated from Los Angeles High School the year before, in the audience of Bergen's radio program as the guest of a member of his staff. Sitting in the front row, the young fashion model's legs caught 38-year-old Bergen's attention and he asked to meet her. The two were married in Mexico after years of long-distance courtship, on June 28, 1945. On May 9, 1946 Frances gave birth to future actress Candice Bergen, whose first performances were on Bergen's radio show. Their second child was film and television editor Kris Bergen. Frances also acted, appearing in several movies, co-starring in the 1958 television series Yancy Derringer, and guest-starring in numerous other shows.

Death

In mid-September 1978 he announced that he was retiring after over 50 years in show business and sending his monocled, top-hatted partner, Charlie McCarthy, to the National Museum of American History at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. He opened at Caesar's Palace Hotel Las Vegas on September 27, for a two-week "Farewell to show business" engagement. He died three days later on September 30, 1978.

Bergen was interred with his parents (who are buried under their true surname of "Berggren"), in Inglewood Park Cemetery, Inglewood, California. Edgar Bergen's wife of 33 years, Frances Westerman Bergen, died at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, on October 2, 2006, aged 84, from undisclosed causes.<sup>[9]</sup> She is also buried in Inglewood Cemetery. In 1990, Bergen was elected to the Radio Hall of Fame, the same year that The Charlie McCarthy Show was selected as an honored program. A message in the closing credits dedicates The Muppet Movie (which featured Edgar and Charlie in their last screen appearance) to the memory and magic of Edgar. In 1991, the United States Postal Service honored him with a 29-cent commemorative stamp.

Hollywood Walk of Fame

Bergen was inducted into the Hollywood Walk of Fame with three stars in 1960, for his contributions to television, motion pictures, and radio. The stars are located at 6425, 6766, and 6801 Hollywood Boulevard, respectively.<sup>[10]</sup>

FRED THOMSON

During the 1920's Fred Thomson was the idol of millions throughout the world. He soared like a rocket from a crowded field of cowboy actors to vie with Tom Mix for the title of King of the Silent "B" Westerns. He made twenty-four Westerns from 1924 to his untimely death in 1928. His famous horse, Silver King, shared his stardom, receiving billing on a par with human actors.

Fred Thomson was more than a cowboy. The World's Champion All-Around Athlete for three years, he was a Presbyterian preacher, a Boy Scout Commissioner, and a chaplain during World War I. He was also an accomplished artist, inventor, engineer, musician, sportsman and businessman.

This is the story of a man who lived a life as romantic and exciting as any of his film scenarios.
