To whom it may concern:

My name is [REDACTED]. I am a 74 year old grandpa from Vista, Ca, but I grew up in Van Nuys. More than 60 years ago I was at the Bob's Big Boy on Sherman Way when an altercation broke out between an LAPD Juvenile Officer and a young ruffian. During the scuffle the officer's hand cuffs came loose and slid across the floor. They stopped at my feet and I picked them up and kept them.

I have felt a little guilty each time I saw the hand cuffs over the years, but did nothing about it. Recently, two of my grandsons, aged 6 and 9 were over. They were playing with some plastic handcuffs and I brought out the real ones to impress them. They thought the cuffs were cool and asked me where I got them and I started telling them the story. I don't always have a real good filter, and I told them the whole story. They were aghast and asked me why I stole the handcuffs from a policeman. I, of course, had no good explanation and I told them it was the wrong thing to do and I wasn't proud of it and then I danced around the subject.

I have apologized to my daughter and son-in-law and they assured me they had a good talk with the boys after one of the boys asked about it when they got home and that I was forgiven. But I can't stop thinking that I did wrong on so many levels, and so I am returning the handcuffs with this confession and note of apology. The note is addressed to you, but is partly intended for my grandsons. I will make sure each of them gets a copy of this letter in the hope that they get a different perspective than the one I left them with.

I am sincerely sorry,
